About the Artist

Russell Thomas is a well known Canadian wild colour artist based in Okotoks, Alberta, Canada. He began his painting journey at the age of 47 and discovered a style that found traction almost immediately. Working for United Way in Fort McMurray by day, Russell spent evenings and weekends creating a large body of work and fans across Canada and in countries around the world. He quickly found ways to use his passion for painting to help a wide variety of community causes and charities. His live painting performances have inspired bids as high as $18,000 for a single painting.

While he focused entirely on human subjects in the first few years, Russell has found a passion for adding his wild colour style to animals, still life subjects, and landscapes. In addition to raising money for charities and hosting workshops, Russell does a wide range of commission projects.

Giving Back

Foundational to Russell's artistic philosophy is finding ways to help others.

"We love finding ways of working with charities and schools," said Thomas. "We know how hard it is to raise the funds needed to do good work in communities. If we can help in some way using my passion for painting, we are eager to do so."

SPECIAL NOTE: this catalogue can be used as a fundraiser for schools and charities by special arrangement with the artist. A percentage of each sale would be returned to the organization as a donation.

Ask about an upgrade to an EP!

Russell is pleased to upgrade any gallery canvas print purchased to an EP, or an Embellished Print, for a small extra fee. This includes some hand embellishments to the print including five white dots in a row somewhere on the piece of art. This is his artistic signature that can be found on every EP. The EP is also numbered, dated and signed. It is a way have adding some extra value and collectability to your purchase.

How long before delivery?

Prints generally take two weeks to arrive from the date of order. However, with the busy holiday season, it might be safer to plan for three weeks. If you have arranged to have the print(s) upgraded to an EP, it will take a few extra days as the prints first need to be sent to Birdsong Studio.
